

Eric McDavid was arrested on January 13, 2006, as part of the government's ongoing "Green Scare" campaign against environmental and animal rights activists. His arrest was a direct result of government infiltration and entrapment. After a trial fraught with errors, Eric was convicted and sentenced to a shocking 20 years in prison for a crime that was never committed.

Join us as we learn about Eric's case, entrapment, the use of informants, and government repression in general. Unfortunately, these tools of the state are becoming more and more prevalent, and it's imperative that people understand how they work.

Presentation to be followed by musical performances from: Spoke Pants of the Flowering Pants with Nora & Gnoll.

For more information on Eric and his case, please visit www.supporteric.org

